

AMBIGUOUS GEOGRAPHIES

AN INTERDISCIPLINARY CONVERSATION

Wednesday, March 23, 4pm–5:30pm

Neal-Marshall Black Culture Center, Grand Hall

Please join invited guests and IU faculty and graduate students as we discuss the need for scholarly and practical frameworks that recognize the world's increasingly borderless, changing, and ambiguous geographies. An interdisciplinary group of arctic scholars and practitioners, global and area studies scholars, Pacific and Oceania studies scholars, geographers, anthropologists, historians, and legal scholars will guide the conversation.

*Supported in part by Indiana University's College of Arts and Sciences Ostrom Grants Program,
